Remember the feeling of painting when you didn't know that outcome mattered? Maybe it is as far back as nursery school or kindergarten.

You allowed yourself to get completely absorbed by the way the brush moved the paint onto your paper... the way the paint looked when it mixed on the surface...

Rediscover that experience, incorporating that kindergarten bravery and independence while also learning some tricks of the trade about color and composition so you leave with work you are excited about.

Artists are given several 12" canvas boards and will use provided acrylic paints.

This class is limited to 12 participants who are interested in learning to paint abstractly. Beginners to more advanced artists welcome.
